Mitchell's New Survey Shows Higher Costs Of Joining College District

When the school board meets Tuesday night at 7:15 o'clock at the high school, District Superintendent Stuart Mitchell will present a cost analysis of Carmel Unified School District's participating in a Peninsula wide junior college district vs. remaining out and paying for junior college education for its students on the present tuition-tax basis.

Cost of joining: 55 cents per $100 valuation for 20 years. The first year, Carmel and Pacific Grove will also have to pay 39 cents tuition tax for the preceding year. The 55 cents includes bond issue for immediate new construction, but not for construction which will be needed within five years.

Cost of remaining out: 1957-58, 41 cents; 1958-59, 52 cents, 1959-60, 56 cents; 1960-61, 57 cents; 1961-62, 60 cents.

Cost of remaining out of the district is based on anticipated increased numbers of Carmel and Pacific Grove students attending junior college. It is a projection of future numbers based on percentage of increase in the past five years.

The above 55 cents cost of joining figure is higher than the estimate in Mr. Mitchell's report to the Carmel Board of Realtors meeting Friday noon. He has since revised his findings in light of a later report by Monterey College President Calvin Flint, using Mr. Flint's operating cost figure of 35 cents rather than the state study figure 32.5. He also used Mr. Flint's estimate of .1288 cents tax rate for purchase of campus and for bond issue for "partial construction" but he felt that the new district would have to assess a 5 cent retirement and civic center tax, rather than the present .02 and .002 which Mr. Flint assumed (Continued on Page Four)

Council May Let Dogs Run Loose And Build A Jail For People

Tryouts Sunday For Midsummer Night's Dream

Sunday, at 2:30 o'clock, tryouts for Shakespeare's Midsummer Night's Dream will be held on the outdoor stage of the Forest Theatre, Herbert Heron, producer of the Carmel Shakespeare Festival announced this morning.

Heron's Shakespeare reading group chose the play at a meeting last night. It will be produced the last two week ends in August.

Mrs. Genevieve Thompson presented a petition to the city council last night, which she said she intends to circulate for signatures today. She asks repeal of the amendment to the dog licensing ordinance which requires that all dogs be vaccinated and confined during the rabies epidemic. The city should allow dogs which have been vaccinated to run free in the residence district, she said. What's the point of having the dogs vaccinated if they have to be confined also, she wanted to know.

Mayor Horace Lyon delegated Commissioner of Health and Safety Francis Whitaker to discuss with county health authorities the possibility of modifying the amendment. It was on the county health department's request that the council passed the amendment on June 5.

Every Carmel Police Commissioner, at some time during his tenure, raises the dreadful specter of a jail in Carmel. Councilman John Chitwood has done so several times during his two terms on the council. He did it again last night.

Monterey is about to build a bigger jail, he announced. So Monterey is asking its customers (Seaside, Del Rey Oaks, County of Monterey and Carmel) "How big shall we build it? If we build it big enough to hold your prisoners besides ours, you'll have to help pay for it."

Seaside said, "Count us out. We'll build our own jail."

The county said, "We'll pay part of the cost of building it. County prisoners, held temporarily, comprise 22 percent of Monterey jail's lodgers."

Last night Carmel said, in effect, "It's larceny."

Carmel has been paying $10 per night per prisoner for accommodations in Monterey jail. Here's what Monterey will charge to take Carmel prisoners in their new jail: $570 per year for 20 years and $18.30 per night per prisoner.

Of all the people confined in the Monterey jail last year, only three percent belonged to Carmel.

Councilman Chitwood said he thought two "detention cells" could be built at the Carmel Police station for about $5000, and the night desk man could be jailer.

Chief Clyde Klaumann suggested an alternative. He thought that Pacific Grove, which has a two cell jail, would be willing to accommodate the few people Carmel has to confine each year.

Council decided not to decide just yet. They asked City Clerk Larry Rose to verify figures on the number of Carmel prisoners held in the Monterey jail over the past five years, and on the cost of "retention cell" construction.

Planning Commission Holds Over Approval Of Segal Bldg. Plans

The Carmel Planning Commission held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to consider plans for Barney Segal's new offices. The question was would the commission authorize the use of both brick and stucco, and leave the choice to the discretion of Mr. Segal. Mr. Segal contends that stucco would be cheaper.

Chairman George Willox said that it would be out of order to authorize both brick and stucco at this time, and that Mr. Segal must submit plans for one or the other before the commission could act.

Carmel Volunteer Fire Department members were awarded certificates from the California State Department of Industrial Training, Fire Training Division, after a week-long course (15 hours) in small tools, equipment and salvage operation, under the instruction of a state representative, Robert Lewis.

Another state 30-hour course is planned in September on fire tactics.

Second row: Bob Shirley, Jake May, Cy Hargis, Carl Patnude, Gil Leandra, Kenneth Roberts.

Third row: Cliff Brown, Ed Fisher, Vince Torras, Jr, Paul Artellan, Walt Fenney, and fourth row: Wm. Askew, Jr, Joe Nicholson.

The volunteers are sending out letters today asking for contributions from the citizens to replenish their treasury and finance their activities. See page 4 and page 13.

LITTLE LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Tie
San Carlos Agency	4	2	0
Pilot Market	3	2	1
Sport Shop	3	2	1
Boys Town	1	5	0

San Carlos Agency continues to lead the Carmel Little League as the teams go into the final week's play. Jack Miller's first-half champs posted an important 6-4 win over Boys Town with Bobby Moffatt pitching and batting the Agency to the win. The little right-hander threw a steady five-hitter at Boys Town and helped his own cause with two hits in three chances. Boys Town's two Davids, Rosenkranz and Harber, shared the mound duties for the losers but were betrayed by a wild four-run second inning.

Lew McCreery's Sport Shop nine put a brake on the San Carlos runaway of the second-half by edging the league-leaders, 8 to 7, in Monday night's play. The Sports Shop got off to a 3-run lead in the first inning as Charley Konrad connected for a homer and Baumann and Hull hit solid doubles. A big rally in the fourth inning saw the Sport Shop sew up the game as McMahon, Konrad, and Fairfield connected for safe hits. Bobby Baumann pitched the win with Lyndon Mahrt receipting for the loss.

Tonight's Little League game matches second-place Pilot Market with the front-running San Carlos gang. A win for Pilot's will put them a half game ahead of the Agency while a win for San Carlos will practically sew up the 1957 Little League championships. Pilots kept in the running Tuesday by whipping Boys Town, 5 to 1, as Forest Cornwall hit his sixth homer of the season to lead the Market nine. David Cox pitched one of the best games of the Little League season, holding Boys Town to a pair of scratch singles, both by Pat Bein.

MERCHANT SOFTBALL NINE SPLITS PAIR

A fine three-hit pitching performance by Paul Ricketson led the Carmel Merchant softball team to an important 2-1 victory over arch-rival Rasmussen & Moody in the Pacific Grove softball league. Ricketson, one of the most improved pitchers in the area, scattered the three hits very effectively and had the Sports popping up for most of the game. The Merchants got the two runs they needed in the last inning when Aiello drew a walk, stole second, and came home on Walt Frey's scorching single. Frey scored the winning run on a passed ball. Besides tallying the winning marker, the veteran second-baseman hit the R&M pitching for a solid 3 for 4.

In a recent game at Hollister, the Merchants dropped a 4-3 decision when a home-run with the bases jammed wiped out a cozy three-run lead which the Merchants had built up. Paul Lytle, a newcomer to the Merchant pitching staff, curved them over for the locals and pitched a nifty four-hitter. Except for the fatal four-master, the slender righthander checked the heavy-hitting Hollister pastimers in good fashion. Walt Frey continued his torrid hitting streak in this one by blasting a home-run in the fifth heat.

JUNIOR LEGION POST 512 AT SALINAS THIS SATURDAY

Seeking their first win in Legion play, Carmel's Post 512 aggregation travels to Salinas Saturday afternoon to cross bats with the league-leading Salinas crew. Salinas, last year's champions, clipped both Monterey and Hollister and look to be a good bet to repeat their 1956 performance as league winners. Post 512 dropped a decision to Hollister and was clubbed, 6 to 2, by Monterey last Saturday morning.

The Carmel Legion nine enjoyed a two-run lead over Monterey for three innings when Cim Conway blasted a home-run with Mal Burdis on base. However, Tim O'Shea, Carmel hurler, ran into a wild streak and set the stage for a four-run Monterey rally. Cim Conway came in to put out the fire but the Monterey Legion was out of reach. Monterey also copped the abbreviated five-inning nightcap, 9 to 8, as both teams picked up some much-needed batting practice. Tim O'Shea hit a grand slam homer in this one, hitting a 360-footer over the rightfield fence. Walter Helm, Post 512's third-baseman, handled eight chances without a miscue and looks to be the best infielder in the Legion circuit.

CARMEL FOUNDATION NOTES

Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock there will be a talk at Carmel Foundation Town House entitled, Enjoy good eating enjoy birthdays. The speaker is Mildred Krohn, nutrition consultant, Department of Public Health, State of California, an active member of the American Public Health Association, American Dietetic Association, American Home Economics Association, and the respective affiliated State and local associations of each organization.

The refreshments will be prepared in accordance with recipes illustrating the concept of good nutrition and good eating.

YACHTING NEWS

Kent Clark's Querida won the yacht race at Fresno last Sunday (Millerton Lake). His boat also came in second at the Stuart Haldorn Regatta of two weeks ago, however he will not be able to compete in the Internationals.

The International Yacht Race is for the Mercury Class, a very popular boat on the Monterey peninsula. Stillwater Cove has the largest fleet of Mercury Class sailboats, and they are talking of splitting the members into a Pebble Beach and Carmel membership so that twice as many ships can enter the races (a representative number from each club can qualify). Commodore S. C. Bow has not made this definite yet; it is still in the talking stage, but it shows how popular the small craft are.

The first six winners of the Haldorn Race are allowed to compete in the Internationals, and six from clubs all over the country will be there. The International will be held at Newport Beach and the Balboa Yacht Club will sponsor the famous event.

However, the first six winners can't all make it to the race, since Kent Clark and Ray Rittler are to race somewhere else, so the first eight Haldorn winners were considered and the seventh and eighth will substitute. They are: 1st, Ralph Buchan; 2nd, Kent Clark; 3rd, Jon Koningshofer; 4th, Ray Rittler; 5th, Jim Condon; 6th, Jim Womble; 7th, John Koolwick and 8th, Fred Dodd.

During the Haldorn Race the weather was squally and the wind was 30 knots, so one halyard was broken, one mainsail was split, there were two broken masts, and two broken booms. The fact that it was the first day of sailing was partly to blame.

WATER

The Most Important Thing In Life

No matter how carefully designed and constructed, a public water system is never completed. Water mains must inevitably follow a city's growth, and in most cases, must actually precede it.

There are three principal reasons for extending or increasing the size of water mains:

First, to serve new territory;

Second, to improve service to territory already being supplied;

Third, to install permanent construction in advance of street improvement.

Expenditures of the first class, when wisely made, produce additional revenue from new water sales. To some extent this is true of the second class. But rarely, if ever, is additional revenue produced by an expenditure of the third category. Therefore, such expenditures are regarded as contributions to the common good. Consumers are assured that California Water & Telephone Company will continue its policy of installing new and larger mains, fire hydrants and other facilities to maintain the highest possible degree of water service.

Council Hopes To Give Employees 10 Percent Raise

The city council, at its study session last night, asked City Clerk Lawrence Rose to calculate what it would cost to give all city employees a 10 percent raise and produce the figures at their adjourned meeting on June 26.

They took this action after they heard Chief of Police Clyde Klauermann's appeal to bring the salaries of his police officers up to the level of Seaside and Pacific Grove police pay. Carmel police officers work 44 hours a week; police of the other Peninsula cities, 40. Carmel's top pay is $371; Pacific Grove's, $424; Seaside's, $427; Monterey's, $435; and the sheriff's deputies get $446.

"I've lost two men to Seaside; two to the sheriff's office and two more are ready to go," Chief Klauermann said. "Do you want a police department that is a credit to Carmel or do you want just a police department? I don't want to be responsible for such a department."

He has a 10-man force. By employing another man the department could operate on a 40 hour week and continue to give the same service, he said.

None of the council appeared to warm to the 40 hour week proposal, but Mayor Horace Lyon and Councilman Carl Patnude favored a salary raise for all city employees.

Councilman Francis Whitaker wanted to know what a 10 percent raise would cost. He was not satisfied with Clerk Rose's estimate of $13,753 because it did not include increase in city contribution to the retirement fund.

"It may mean a 20 percent increase in property tax," Councilman Whitaker said. "I just want you to know what you're doing."

Mr. Rose admitted he was "going way out on a limb" but he said he thought that salary raises could be managed without increase in present property tax rate. All departments except his own had stayed well within their budget allowance and there was a carry-over. Also, revenue is holding up well.

Allowing 10 percent increase in operational costs and $45,000 for the three lots of the Murphy property the city is committed to buy, the salary increase can be managed provided the council makes no extraordinary budget demands, Mr. Rose thought.

Councilman Patnude said, "Most of our problem is at Fourth and Junipero (the Murphy property). It is unfair to penalize the employees because we made a capital investment."

The mayor agreed, adding that the salaries should be raised, "even if we have to have a bond issue" to complete purchase of the Murphy property, which is adjacent to the Youth Center and is being purchased two lots a year for a corporation yard, possibly a future city hall. Meanwhile the city pays rent for the lots that have not been bought.

"Bond issue" brought a horrified no from the other council members.

Before the salary discussion the council worked for an hour on a revision of the personnel ordinance, which has to do with probationary period, vacation pay, sick leave, etc. City Attorney John Morse read an ordinance repealing the old personnel ordinance, to be effective July 1. The new ordinance will provide that the salary schedule can be adopted by resolution rather than by ordinance, eliminating the requirement for legal publication.

18,000 Attend First Fiesta Fantastica

Despite an unscheduled heat-wave, the First Annual Carmel Valley Fiesta Fantastica drew 18,000 people last week end to Valley Center.

Among the 250 entries in the art show, the following won ribbons: professional oil, Marlinda Von Ruhs; water color, Gene Baker; amateur water color, Jo Smart Albee; sculpture, Gene M. Flores; drawings, David Johnson; mosaic, Mrs. Robert Tuttle; weaving, Dorthe Broz; jewelry, Roscoe M. Russell. Honorable mention: professional oil, landscape, John Cunningham; still life, Beverly Watson; Jack Keith, Richard Rodriguez; watercolor, Paul Blaine, S. C. Yuan, Edith Beck, Lindsay Jeffers.

The Beaux Arts Masque Ball was well attended, as were the folk dancing sessions.

Jessie May Askew

Mrs. Jessie May Askew died at her home last Tuesday after a brief illness. She was the widow of Harrison W. Askew. She was born in Horsehead, N. Y. in 1869.

Mrs. Askew made her home in Carmel for the past 37 years. She was a member of Church of the Wayfarer and Monterey Chapter 239, Order of Eastern Star.

Her survivors are William Askew, Carmel Street Superintendent, David S. Askew, Carmel post office clerk, and a third son in Carmel, Charles B. Askew. Her daughters are Mrs. Amy Mylar, wife of Carmel postmaster Fred Mylar; Mrs. Jettie Tuthill of Carmel; Mrs. Millie Funchess of Carmel; Mrs. Winifred Schelling of Morgan Hill; Mrs. Elizabeth Shell of Hanford, and Miss Ruth Askew of Layton. Mrs. Askew also leaves 19 grandchildren and 44 great-grandchildren.

Writers Are Among Wells' Well-Wishers

At last Saturday's Open House of The Wells, Carmel book and music shop, a roster of well-known Monterey Peninsula celebrities in the literary field called to wish Polly and Joseph Wells success in their new location.

Both in person, and through floral tributes coming from those authors unable to attend, Carmel's best known writers signified their good wishes to Carmel's new Ocean Avenue book and music shop.

Among the out-of-town authors present was Mrs. Willa Okker Iverson, author of The Strange Case of Constance Flood. Mrs. Okker, now a resident of San Mateo, is a former newspaperwoman. As a reporter she attended the celebrated trial in which Constance Flood sought to prove her relationship to one of San Francisco's best known and wealthiest families. Mrs. Iverson's written account of the case was published this spring by Putnam.

Another visitor was Mrs. Dee Burke Lopez, whose new book, Braid Circle, a story of the Navy, is on current publication lists.

Sanitary Board Agrees To 2 Cent Cut In Taxes

The Carmel Sanitary District Board, meeting Thursday afternoon, agreed to a 2 cent cut in tax rate for budget purposes. Official action cannot be taken until the budget meeting on July 19. This puts the rate at 21 cents, continuing the steady drop in sanitary district tax for the past five years.

The board also authorized purchase of a one and half ton GMC truck with bed and hoist, $2613.20; and a Ford two ton truck with chassis only, $2613.20.

Wayfarer officiated. Interment was in the family plot at El Carmelo Cemetery, Pacific Grove.

Pallbearers were William Askew Jr., Clayton Askew, Max Drewin, Ewell Cole, Lawrence Westcott, and Harry Robinson.

would suffice the new district.

Mr. Flint's estimate of tax cost of joining: 50 cents.

Mr. Mitchell's estimate of tax cost of joining: 55 cents.

Mr. Flint's 50 cent rate is based on bond issue to cover partial construction. For "total construction" he feels a over-ride tax of 13 cents more would be needed.

Mr. Flint provides two estimates of tax cost of Carmel's remaining out of district: the first, projected from present conditions starts at 39 cents and reaches 40 cents in 1961-62. He points out that there is a possibility of increased operational expense, in which case the tax for those remaining out would start at 43 cents and build up to 56 cents by 1962.

Matters for the school board to consider: Though there are variations in the estimated tax cost of remaining out of district, even the highest, Mr. Mitchell's, indicates that it would be cheaper for the first two years for Carmel to remain out of the junior college district. Cost of joining in each report is based on minimum construction. If Carmel remains out of the district, its contribution toward capital outlay to Monterey College remains fixed by state legislation: $300 per pupil, which is spread tax-wise throughout all the areas of the county that are not attached to a junior college.

If Carmel joins the Monterey district it will be required to pay increased taxes on bond issues that it will not be able to vote down.

Another elementary school must be built shortly to relieve pressure on Sunset School. The land is already purchased for it in Carmel Valley.

Though Carmel School District taxpayers would not be able to vote down bonds for construction at Monterey College, they can, and might find it necessary, to defeat bonds in their own school district.

In joining a Peninsula college district the school board might be depriving their own elementary school children of needed classrooms.

Carmel withdrew from the Monterey High School District and built its own high school to protect itself from ever-increasing Monterey High School bond issues over which the voters on this side of the hill had no control.

Dear Friends of the Carmel Volunteer Firemen:

Traditionally, Volunteer Fire Departments hold annual dances to raise funds to cover club expenses not covered by tax money. As there is not a suitable building in Carmel to hold the crowd necessary to make a dance profitable, we have in the past, asked you for donations to finance our activities.

Our last appeal to you for funds was made on June 1, 1953. The response to our appeal was very generous, and the amount received has enabled us to finance our activities since that time. Now, however, our treasury has been depleted to the point, that, in order to continue our activities, we must again ask our friends to come to our assistance.

We feel that our record, through the years, merits your financial support. Through our training and the work we have done in fire prevention, the loss from fire has been kept at a minimum for a good many years, and as a result, the insurance rate for the City of Carmel is just one-half of the rate for property outside the city, and compares favorably with neighboring cities with full paid fire departments.

Along with the prevention and

THE SECOND SUMMER

The second summer
is already half-way past autumn
The tide has gone out and the wind for once is blowing from out of the east
It is warm
so strange for this late in the year
The far fading quarter moon falls deeper still
And the ocean just rustles at edge
Behind the dark pines from Monterey over the hill
a searchlight pierces the sky
Vain defilings
The car lights are nearer that bore out into the night over the top of the surf and disappear over the bay
They sweep by and light me then pass as the cars circle by on the high road
They are prettier far off like those coming up from the coast ...
Then pretend they are jewels or even ants ...
They round down the hill by Point Lobos
then straight
where the road passes close by the beach ...
then hidden
then crossing the river
then gone

When there weren't any houses or cars encroaching on wind rock and sand
clean driven salt stinging spindrift and grass bending over away from northwest
cypress
the dark pine and granite

Yet enough was preserved
by the lovers
first comers
by the soul-owners
proud in their arts
who built up the village since changed not so much as the rest of the peoples
But the seascape of Tor House is going
... and paved roads are better for cars
... and trees shouldn't block off the view

Carmel Portraits . . .

BY DAISY BOSTICK

If you sit long enough and wait patiently, some interesting story pops up right at your door. So when my good neighbors, Ed and Alvina Gerdt, brought over their guest to meet me, I was thrilled to find that it was Afton Revel Lewis about whom I had often heard. She is a charming person with shiny black hair, creamy skin and dusky gray-green eyes shaded by long eyelashes. She has done about everything there is to do. She told me about once waking up to the fact that she hadn't yet sailed a boat nor learned to ski—both of which she immediately tackled.

We were soon on a first-name basis and, with frequent prods from me, she recalled some of her youthful days in Carmel. Old timers will remember a sort of farm down on Mission Street a few blocks south of Ocean Avenue. It was there that Afton's father devoted himself to chicken raising and experimenting on the breeding of new strains. Afton was then a small child and spent her days swimming, playing on the beach, and running around the village with a school chum. They frequented the old Carmel Bakery and were especially addicted to an angel-food cake with chocolate frosting. Afton would charge it to her mother and the two girls would devour the cake on the way home, licking their fingers so mother wouldn't suspect. However the good lady often wondered why her account at the bakery ran much higher than she had expected.

Afton remembers most vividly the year William Chase, internationally famous artist, conducted a class in painting in Carmel. One day he spied her running around on the beach. He called her to him and asked her if she would pose for his class. Evidencing childish embarrassment she said he would have to see her mother. A call on Mrs. Lewis at first seemed fruitless. "What!" said she, "To have my little girl take off her clothes and to be put on canvas for all to see." Her answer was an emphatic No. "But," the great Mr. Chase insisted, "we just want her to be painted in one of her pretty dresses. This blue one, perchance." And with that the mother gave a reluctant consent, still, with some mental reservations.

Of the posing, Afton remembers only that she usually sat in the forks of a tree or on a stone wall and that she became adept at sitting calm and relaxed. Through the session there would be twenty-eight minutes of work and two minutes of rest every half-hour. Her only unpleasant memory is that she badly wanted to see the sketches but none of the artists would allow it.

Afton has very vivid recollections of playing in some of the children's plays in the Forest Theater. In those days the costumes were rented from Goldstine's in San Francisco who also furnished a make-up man for the production. The little Afton darted around watching the man as he worked over the players' features and was fascinated by the changes he wrought. It was enough of an influence to lead her to become proficient in make-up when she

Review Of Ware Play . . .

By MAX TADLOCK

Once upon a time there was a furniture buyer whose wife died, thereby leaving him bereft of his sense of responsibility, in a gentle, quiet sort of way. Therefore, he lavished his affection upon his lovely daughter and upon his woodcarving, leaving his second wife to find her own solace where she might. As a result, his Patient Griselda did, after twelve years, finally find comfort for herself in the arms of both Bacchus and those of an unscrupulous merchant who appeared from her past. For this, she got her comeuppance with the aid of the United States FBI; and all the rest lived happily ever after, with the exception of her funny little old mother who also suffered.

Thus did The Man On A Stick, A Modern Fable, unfold before a capacity audience in its California premiere at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre Friday night. And the audience was enthusiastic in its reception both of the play and the players. However, it is the opinion of this reviewer that a less partisan audience might have viewed the play itself with a great deal of coolness, despite there being some moments of good fun and some fine little gems of characterization.

Carmel's own Harlan Ware, best known for his book novel Come, Fill The Cup and for his long writing association with One Man's Family for radio, was co-author with his brother Leon Ware, another writer of comparable talents. They opened the play in Victoria, Texas, in March and the Civic Theatre production there was voted the most popular play of the season.

This local production is a re-write production to prepare the play for a possible Broadway opening. Both brothers worked with the director and the cast right up until dress rehearsal time repairing lines, scenes. In these days of high production costs, it would seem a wise procedure to work out all possible bugs with an excellent little theatre group like the Golden Bough Players Circle.

The local cast and Charles Thomas' fine direction leave little to be desired. Bud Moughton as the rather "Father Barber-ish" Judge Corp, and his little companion Jerry Zellhoefer, who played the youngster from next door, were both clapped off stage for excellent scenes. Janet Fleuhr and Rick Beck-Meyer as the daughter and her FBI prince charming made an attractive couple. Walter Williams as the unsavory villain gave his usual relaxed and excellent performance. Stephanie Hurd played the villain's wife.

Alex Olivetti as the husband was perhaps miscast. For my taste he carries his age a bit too well to be effective as a middle-aged milquetoast. Best performances were certainly those of Betty Fowlston as the second wife, and Babs Richardson as her dependent and eccentric mother.

While we wish our own neighbors more success than we wish outsiders, it is the feeling of this reviewer that The Man On A Stick will require more than production re-writing. As a play it lacks certainly two major ingredients. One, the focus of the audience on a central problem instead of the casual examination of several problems, any one of which might have been sufficient. Two, the development of sufficient sympathy in the audience for the proper characters. Frankly, the sympathy of many in the audience seemed to be with the second wife.

Withal, however, even this reviewer left the theatre pleased that he had come. It is a pleasant evening and there is certainly plenty happening every moment on stage.

High School Grads Win Scholarships

There were three Carmel High School students who competed successfully for the California State Scholarships: Linda Moll, Tony White, and Laszlo G. Laky. The scholarships, which are $600, are renewable for the four years of college. Laszlo Laky also won seventh place out of 3300 competing for the Mathematical Association of America's award. Seventh place is awarded $100. Laszlo plans to go to the University of California to major in physical science.

Other awards are the Monterey-SanBenito Counties Medical Auxiliary which go to Nancy Sheldon, $150 for the field of nursing; Monterey County Soroptimist $400 Scholarship goes to Tessa Requiro; and Navy Reserve Officers Training Corps Scholarship which goes to Jay Stiles.

Seabears of the Lifetime California Federation Scholarships are Tessa Requiro, Nancy McKay, Lorraine Dearing, and Churchill Carmalt.

PTA Girls League $600 Scholarship goes to Carey Edson, and their $400 scholarships go to Stephanie Craviotto and Robert Potter.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

Ten years ago Alice Payne Hackett edited a book which was published under the title Fifty Years of Best Sellers. It was a success from the start, which is a little surprising because the subject matter is not of general interest, and it takes a lot of interest to make a book a success. It has been out of print for several years. Comes now a new and elongated edition of the book, this one called Sixty Years of Best Sellers, and covering the years 1895 through 1955. There are lists of year by year best sellers in both fiction and non fiction, with interesting information on many of the books and often on circumstances surrounding publication or popularity.

During the 60 years of publication covered by this book, the all time high was held by a novel written by Charles Monroe Sheldon entitled In His Steps. Miss Hackett gives it eight million copies sold, and other sources go as high as 30 million in their estimates. It was published in 1897, has been translated into 21 languages, including the Russian, and has been banned by the Soviet. It ranks next to the Bible and the works of Shakespeare in long time popularity. Did you ever read it? The library has a copy.

The influx of paper bound books let many an author into the over-a-million-sold list who might never have made it otherwise. Erle Stanley Gardner has 41 books which have sold over a million copies. Ellery Queen has a great many, and even Mickey Spillane has six books which more than a million people wanted to read bad enough to buy them. The Wonderful Wizard of Oz sold over three million copies, and many there are of us today who are glad that childhood experience included owning a copy of this book. Freckles by Gene Stratton Porter, which was first published in 1904, has sold over two million copies. A Girl of the Limberlost by the same author sold almost as many. Remember that these books were published long before anyone dreamed up a monthly book club whose distribution could swell sales by hundreds of thousands, whether anyone but the editors liked the book or not.

Perhaps no one would be surprised that Gone With the Wind sold over five million copies. Who but a young mother would think that Common Sense Book of Baby and Child Care by Doctor Spock could have sold over seven million copies since 1946! If you are at all interested in who reads what and why, this book about books is for you. Sixty Years of Best Sellers by Hackett.

Probably none of the new books for this week will ever make a best seller list, but there is good reading in them nevertheless. Good looking, too, because one of them is the Decorative Yearbook for 1955-56. This is the Studio Yearbook of Furnishing and Decoration and is full of beautiful modern ideas in design.

We had so many requests for a book on mosaics, and none had been published which were obtainable. A good one has just been published, and we dashed in with an order for two copies. Now we are armed against an invasion by mosaic makers. Please come and use them. They look most helpful and even inspireful.

Piet Mondrian was born in Holland in 1876 and died in New York in 1944, and during his span of years he changed from a traditional craftsman to a modern artist known for patterns of light and color in geometric shapes. Michel Seuphor has done a handsome book on Mondrian, which is illustrated with beautiful color plates of his work.

We can't stop here without telling you that at last our copy of Traveller in the Wilderness has come. This is Cid Ricketts Summers' account of her trip down the Colorado River with seven men who were recording the beauties of the river canyons before other men moved in to dam the river and cover up its beauties. Mrs. Ricketts was 64 years of age at the time she made the trip. Just the right age for adventure, she said. What a woman! And what a book!

Special Services At All Saints' Sun. For 350th Anniversary

In 1607 the Virginia Company sent an expedition to begin the settlement of Jamestown. With the party came the Rev. Robert Hunt. He was the first Anglican clergyman to undertake the establishment of a church on American soil. On June 21, 1607, which was the third Sunday after Trinity, he held his first service of The Holy Communion in America. The service was held in a small wattle and daub church built during the first month of the Jamestown settlement. Since this time the Episcopal Church has been in continuous existence in America.

In the 350th year since the beginning of the Episcopal Church in the United States, the Parishes are being encouraged to celebrate this important anniversary. A service commemorating this anniversary will be held in All Saints' Church at 11:00 o'clock on Sunday morning, June 23.

The preacher is to be the Very Rev. James M. Malloch, D.D., of Fresno. He will speak on the topic, From Jamestown to Carmel.

For many years Dr. Malloch served as the Dean of St. James Cathedral, Fresno. He has been widely known as a lecturer, and radio speaker. Prior to his ordination to the ministry, Dr. Malloch had a distinguished career, both in business and in public education.

POINT DIRECTORS' MEETING

The newly organized Carmel Point Home Owners Association has a membership of 85. Frank Moller, chairman of the board of directors stated this week. At the directors' meeting Saturday morning, it was decided to call a general membership meeting within the next two weeks, and to hold an annual meeting in September to elect officers.

"We plan to work with the county planning commission and not against them," Mr. Moller stated. "Joe Thorne and Keith Evans (planning commission members from the peninsula) have our area at heart as much as we have."

June 15, 1957

Mr. F. E. Howe, Sec'y,
The 33 Highway Association,
Coalinga, Calif.

Dear Mr. Howe:

I have seen a statement in the Regional News Service of San Francisco that a new super-highway, to be designated State Highway 2398, is included in a bill signed by Governor Knight as a preliminary to the State's application to Federal road authorities for its inclusion in the Federal Interstate System. The statement is made that your Association has been laboring for more than 30 years to get the State to build an alternate down the west side of the valley.

Our organization is not interested in the question of road building but does have a great interest in protecting the beauty and attractiveness of any highways. Keeping them free from billboards is one way to do this. It is our hope that in planning for this new highway, your organization will make every effort to see that any billboards erected along it will be confined to commercial locations. I am sure that your influence in this direction will be very important.

I have many times driven thru the Priest Valley section of southeastern Monterey County which ultimately arrives at your city. It is a very scenic region and I should like to think of its natural beauty as being protected.

Very sincerely,

C. Edward Graves,

Western Representative.

Pasmore Trio To Give Concert For Symphony Benefit

Miss Mary Lindsay-Oliver will present an event of special musical interest to many on the Peninsula on Tuesday, July 2 at 8:30 o'clock. This will be the Pasmore Trio, which has not been heard for years because the Pasmore sisters married and scattered. They are now to be together for two weeks in Carmel. They will give concerts in San Jose, Marin County, and Carmel as a tribute to their father who was a well known musician in San Francisco for many years and took his gifted young family to Europe for musical development. Some of his compositions will be on their program. No tickets will be sold but there will be a voluntary collection to benefit the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra. The concert will be played in the All Saints' Parish Hall.

Mary Pasmore, now Mrs. Amos Henry Shattuck, who is noted as a specialist on the Viol D'amour, is also a violin soloist and a long time member of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. Suzanne, pianist, now Mrs. Oliver Allen, is living near Berkeley. Dorothy, cellist, now Mrs. Pasmore Bell, lives at Soquel; and Radiana, the singer, who changed Pasmore to Pasmore, is a concert soloist in New York and elsewhere. This comprises the four successful musicians whom Miss Lindsay-Oliver engaged for a concert in the Middle West when the group was on tour throughout the country. All will be here for July 2.

Further information and the program will be given next week.

Audience Pleased With Lindsay-Oliver Student Recital

Saturday evening an interested audience comfortably filled the spacious old DeNeale Morgan studio, paintings by the well known artist lining the walls, and also a portrait of her by Lindsay-Oliver. Six vocalists and one pianist, students of Mary Lindsay-Oliver, presented the program. Four who sang last year, Vallery Hattery, Richard Turner, JoAnne and David Schoenbrod, heard then by some of the present audience, were acclaimed for "tremendous improvement" in their development. The last named fine baritone gave a stirring rendition of Torelli's Tu Lo Mai and Schumann's Two Grenadiers, in the honor place of completing the program. Good musical expression was dominant throughout.

Joyce Bishop's high soprano was having a first experience in recital with French, Spanish and English that included Iljinsky's Lullabye, to which her teacher had written words specially for her. Marjorie Pegram surprised and delighted her friends with a sympathetic rendering of He was Despised from the Messiah and two lighter numbers. JoAnne Schoenbrod, who had never sung until last year, ably delivered Woe Unto Them from Mendelssohn's Eligah and a duet from La Traviata with her husband. Valerie Hattery pleased with an aria from The Light of the World by Sullivan, Cadman's I Hear a Thrush at Eve and a short Chopin Song as encore. Richard Turner's delivery of two old English songs by Arne and Purcell showed artistic musical capacity, and DeNeale Morgan received applause for three Anna Magdalena Bach and Heller piano pieces.

In opening the program Mary Lindsay-Oliver gave a few minutes' talk on ideals for music study, stressing the need for practice for recitals, the effect of music on personal development and its contribution toward the peace of the world. An enthusiastic social hour followed with refreshments.

The Time Has Come .

by Kippy Stuart

Here comes our fog-time. We can start the look-out for mildew and rust. Many gardens will escape this hazard, but the majority of us will spend time on dusting and spraying. Roses are the heart-break of this locality. For many weeks we have been showered with superior rose blooms, healthy and secure. The first blooms of the year are always superior. Now, watch foliage become yellow, brown, and the tips of branches residence for every known insect.

Aphids are easily identified and can be eradicated by strong spray from the hose. In fact, you can see aphids disappear from the bushes. Not so thrip and red spider. These latter insects are invisible to the naked eye and are the ones that cause real damage. Coupled with all the rest of rose-pests, comes the caterpillar, one of nature's most ornery inventions. You can't spray for caterpillars. You have to catch them in the act and grab them quick-like before real damage is done.

Snails and slugs love rose foliage and can be identified by their habits. Foliage that is torn on the edges is a victim of snails and slugs; small or large holes in the center of the leaf come from the beetle family, of which there are many. Give particular attention to rose bushes at this time by keeping the soil damp and free from weeds. If we all bend our best efforts toward our roses, we shall be rewarded in future months, when once again they will bloom.

A colorful and reliable shrub, that is seldom seen, is the Marsh Mallow. The bush grows to about six feet, blooms for nine months, showering the garden with luscious, deep pink flowers. The mallow requires small care and is indifferent as to soil and exposure conditions. I have a large group in the far corner of my garden that is a constant "conversational piece", interesting visitors and always intriguing gardeners. It is a shrub well worth your attention.

Flowering shrubs do so much to help a garden. There is the Pleroma, also called the Princess bush. Its horticultural name is, Tibouchine, (if anybody cares!). The foliage is beautiful by itself, with soft velvety deep green leaves. When the Pleroma bursts into bloom it is something to see. Large purple flowers, about three inches in diameter, covers the bush and if cared for and watered well, the Plorma will grow to the proportions of a small, well rounded tree.

Every garden should consider flowering trees and shrubs and plan for seasonal blooming, so the garden will be colorful the year around.

MILTON MAYER ON KPFA

Local FM fans may hear a report by Milton Mayer of Carmel on the progress of integration in Texas if they tune in to Berkeley FM station KPFA Saturday at 4:30 o'clock.

When Mr. Mayer returned recently from Texas, where he made a study of the race situation for the American Friends Service Committee, he recorded his report

Judy Marshall and the Rev. John Powell rehearse carving techniques for the Tri-County Episcopal Convocation Barbecue to be held at Mesa Park in Monterey at 3:00 o'clock Sunday. The Rev. Powell is general chairman for the barbecue, Miss Marshall, an assistant on the committee.

More than two hundred members of the 15 Episcopal churches of the Tri-County Convocation are expected to attend. The Very Rev. James A. Pike, dean of St. John's The Divine Episcopal Church of New York City, is expected to be the principal speaker at the evening services which start at 6:00 o'clock.

There will be games and recreation from 3:00 to 5:00 o'clock, when the barbecue will be served.

on tape for KPFA.

With the churches taking the lead, integration is progressing satisfactorily in Texas, he says. It is accomplished in the schools, and the outlook is more optimistic than most northerners realize.

ARMIN HANSEN SHOW

There will be a one-man exhibition of the late Armin Hansen's paintings. Mr. Hansen was a marine painter who was known for his seascapes, ships and fishermen. The exhibit will start this Saturday and end on July 9. The collection, over forty paintings, will be on display at the Carmel Valley Art Gallery. The varied exhibit representing his versatility will include etchings, oils, water colors and drawings.

WHAT'S DOING

D. D. Muir, your Telephone Manager in Carmel

I'll bet you find dust gathers fast around the house these summer days. And it would at the phone office, too, if we didn't get after it right away. Did you know dust's an enemy of your phone service? You'd never guess how much real trouble it could cause if it got in our switching equipment. One way we keep your calls going through is to vacuum the equipment (above). Just like you clean your living room rug! We've got a special kind of dust cloth, too. It's treated chemically . . . so it'll catch dust better. Can't be too careful about these things.

You can't help noticing "straddle trucks" like this when you see them on the road. They're pretty unusual looking. And take it from me, they're plenty useful, too. When we put in new cables to carry your calls, a truck like this really speeds things up. First it picks up a cable reel in a jiffy. Then carries it fast to the place it's needed. And notice how you can park it right above the manhole where the cable goes.

Pictured here are Monique Boutet and Jackie Leonard, Service Representatives from the Monterey office of Pacific Telephone Company, shopping in a Peninsula store. This is an everyday occurrence of 330 telephone employees who have a payroll of over a million and a half dollars a year. This is a big home town business which economically affects everyone on the Peninsula.

A Weekly Column by

NATIONAL PARK ADVERTISING

A long front-page article in the Wall Street Journal of May 28 reports and analyzes the travel trends and the problems arising from the much larger crowds visiting the national parks each year. Perhaps the most outstanding statement in the article is a quotation from an interview with Conrad L. Wirth, Director of the National Park Service, to the effect that "use of the national park system has outrun its capacity". He adds, according to the reporter, that many scenic treasures are threatened with being "loved to death".

The entire article is a testimonial to the fact that advertising of the parks is doing irreparable harm. A good many years ago advertising was justified. The parks were not very well known, approach roads were unimproved, and people needed to be urged to make an effort to see them. John Muir's famous and often-quoted appeal — "Come to the mountains and get their glad tiding" — fell for many years on deaf ears. Concessioners needed larger crowds to make their operations profitable and extensive advertising was the answer.

With the improvement of road systems and the great upsurge in automobile travel, conditions began to change rapidly. So fast did travel to the parks increase that some two years ago Mission 66, a ten-year improvement plan to bring facilities up-to-date by the year 1966, was launched by the National Park Service and this year Congress responded by appropriating almost double the amount of two years ago. Nevertheless, according to interviews with the personnel of the National Park Service as reported in the Wall Street Journal, we are still far behind schedule. Clearly advertising has gone altogether too far.

A very disturbing statement in the article is this: "The Park Service figures it probably will have to develop more remote areas to handle the rising tide of travelers." This sounds like a knell of doom for the wilderness back country, which so far has had excellent protection through limited access by trails. Wilderness conservationists are becoming alarmed at the travel pressure which bids fair this summer, according to usually reliable advance estimates, to be ten percent above last year's all-time record.

The Mission 66 program calls for the building of 2,000 miles of roads and 1500 miles of trails. If the roads do not penetrate the wilderness back country and do not mar the landscape too much, they will certainly add to visitor comfort in the parks. The trails, too, will serve a useful purpose, if they draw a portion of the crowds off from the congested central areas. Whether they have been well planned is not too clear to the conservation groups at the present time because many of the Mission 66 plans have not yet been made public.

The difficulty of over-advertising of the parks is connected with the concessioner system. Some concessioners, anxious to increase their profits, even go so far as to use billboards on the approach highways. This is certainly in very bad taste, to say the least. Years ago there were controversies, and even congressional hearings, on the abolition of the concessioner system. Whether the present "out-running of the capacity of the parks" will lead to any further proposals of that kind is anybody's guess. Certainly the parks would benefit from a tapering off of their advertising.

Chariot Races, Pony Express Return To Salinas Rodeo

Tickets for what promises to be the most outstanding of all California Rodeos at Salinas, July 11 to 14, are on sale at ticket agencies in San Francisco, Oakland, Palo Alto, San Jose, Monterey and Fresno, and at all Greyhound depots.

The cowboy classic will present the world's greatest rodeo champions in competition with the saltiest stock four stock contractors can produce.

The track show this year is built around those features which have proved most popular through the years, including the return, for the first time since World War II, of chariot, pony express and relay racing.

In addition there will be three teams of Roman riders and more than a dozen trick riders, many of whom will be making their first appearance on the Pacific Coast.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

306 Animals Get Rabies Shots Here

In Carmel 306 cats and dogs were inoculated on Friday at the Fire House clinic. Ten dog licenses were issued by the city clerk. In Monterey County 1,862 animals received the vaccine. Many pet owners brought their pets to private veterinarians, so the total is higher, according to Dr. L. J. Campbell, who is temporarily in charge of the County Public Health move to stamp out rabies. The number of people who responded to the emergency is a good percentage, and the cooperation was fine, he says.

The importance of having pets inoculated is that rabies cannot be detected for six months in an animal, and the virus may be in the saliva while there is no apparent change in the animal. Rabies can be carried by foxes, skunks, or squirrels, and it is necessary to keep household pets corralled during the emergency.

Dr. Campbell is holding a meeting with veterinarians and the county Public Health Service next week to determine whether more animal clinics should be provided.

Elected To Beta Phi Mu

Ruth Thornburg, librarian at Harrison Memorial Library, was notified last Friday that she has been accepted in the National Library Society's Honorary Fraternity, Beta Phi Mu. The Society was organized in 1948 to further good teaching and better education.

Mrs. Thornburg received her Master of Arts at the University of Wisconsin, and was on the Monterey County Library Staff. In March, 1955, when Miss Elizabeth Niles retired, Mrs. Thornburg took her place as Chief Librarian in Carmel.

Ruth Thornburg was one of the founder members of the Carmel Business and Professional Women's Club. Last year she was vice president and membership chairman.

Party To Benefit Orchestra

Next Tuesday a committee of the Monterey County Symphony Guild will meet to plan a garden party benefit which will help offset expenses of symphony performances. At a recent meeting new officers were elected. They are: Mrs. Burton M. Doolittle, president; Mrs. Robert McKeever, Jr., vice president; Mrs. Douglas A. Graham, second vice president; Mrs. Joseph A. McKay, secretary; and Miss Anita Doud, corresponding secretary.

The Guild is responsible for paying artists fees, providing flowers and contributing directly to the Monterey County Symphony Association.

Mrs. Doolittle will preside over the next meeting in planning the garden party.

The garden party is to be held at the Pebble Beach home of Bing Crosby on July 19.

Stewart Woodward Graduated

Stewart Clark Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Woodward of Carmel, graduated from California State Polytechnic College at San Louis Obispo last Saturday. He matriculated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Architectural Engineering.

The Fleets In

When the fleet entered the Golden Gate last Saturday for review, there were three Carmel men in it. They were James W. Madsen, son of Mrs. A. H. Loeffsky, aboard the heavy cruiser USS Rochester, and Navy Ens. Niels J. Reimers, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Reimers of Carmel, aboard the attack aircraft carrier USS Bon Homme Richard. Navy Ens. Rodrick A. Dresser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dresser, and husband of the former Dolores Hausht, was aboard the destroyer USS Picking.

Mrs. Josselyn Honored

Last Saturday evening during the Fremont Junior High School graduation, Florence Josselyn, (Mrs. Talbert Josselyn), received a scroll of appreciation from the Monterey School Board. The last day of school the young people and their parents gave her a reception and a farewell party.

After 17 years of teaching, Mrs. Josselyn is retiring. Talbert Josselyn is a writer. Their daughter, Barbara, is in teacher training now, in order to get her credential from the University of California.

The Josselyns plan to take a trip in the fall, meanwhile Florence is relaxing with her hobby, gardening. In February her term expires on the Carmel Planning Commission. She was a founder member of the Commission ten years ago.

Grandson For The Frank Lloyds

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lloyd (Marge Lloyd is social editor of the Pine Cone), Jennifer, gave birth to a boy, Lloyd Nathaniel Baylis. He weighed 9 lbs. and 1 oz. He was born Sunday at 1:48 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Baylis, the parents, also have another son, Owen, who is two years old.

Mrs. Lloyd has been in Palo Alto with her daughter for the past three weeks, except for a brief return to Carmel to see her daughter, Marjory, graduate from Sunset. Mrs. Lloyd will be back at the Pine Cone next week.

Barbara Mitchell Married

Last Sunday at 7:00 o'clock in the evening Barbara Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Mitchell of Carmel Woods, married Richard Rienhold Small, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Small of Concord, California. The wedding took place at All Saints' Episcopal Church, the Rev. David Hill of St. Mathias officiating. Barbara's sister, Sue Mitchell, was maid of honor. Dick's brother, Robert Small, was best man.

Both Barbara and Dick are music majors and candidates for a teaching credential at College of the Pacific in Stockton. She is a sophomore and he is a senior. Their honeymoon is in the Sierra Mountains. Then they plan to visit Dick's uncle's ranch in Nevada.

Honorary Degree Conferred

On June 12 Dr. Michael Gregg accepted a degree of Doctor of Science for his father, Dr. Alan Gregg, of Big Sur, from Western Reserve University in Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Alan Gregg could not be there because of illness.

He was born in Colorado and took his medical degree at Harvard. Alan Gregg, after his stint in World War I, joined the staff of the Rockefeller Foundation and later became its Director of Medical Sciences and vice president. He is responsible for the integration of psychiatry into biological sciences and clinical practices. He has contributed to medical literature, to the Atomic Energy Commission with its concern for the health of mankind, and he has advised Western Reserve University. The honorary degree conferred upon him shows his leadership in medical education. His son was a graduate of Western Reserve Medical School in 1956. The president, John Schoff Mills, is a life-long friend of Dr. Alan Gregg.

Colonel Allin Assigned to Faculty

Lt. Col. George R. Allin, Jr., son of Gen. and Mrs. George R. Allin of Carmel, graduated last Tuesday from the General Staff College at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas. His family, Mrs. Allin, George, 9; Thomas, 7; and Margaret, 2, will live there for some time. Following his graduation, Col. Allin was appointed to the staff of the Tactical School of the General Staff College. Prior to this assignment he served in Korea and in the Pentagon.

Col. Yuncck New Resident

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Michael R. Yuncck, USMC, are moving to Carmel on July 7 to live here for two years. They are arriving from Washington, D.C., so that Col. Yuncck can enter the U. S. Navy Engineering School. He is a flyer. Their hobby is breeding poodles. They are bringing two poodles, Lisa and Lancelot, with them. These French poodles, and others that the Yunccks have bred, have won dog shows throughout the country.

Captain Laing Graduated

Captain Hugh Kent Laing, U. S. Navy, from Carmel Valley, received his degree of Master of Business Administration with a major in controllership from the George Washington University in Washington, D.C. on June 5.

Mrs. Dora Comstock left on Saturday for New York. On her way home from the east coast she will visit friends in Philadelphia. She will return to Carmel on July 7.

Louis Saylor Received Honors

Louis F. Saylor of Carmel graduated last Thursday from Harvard University with a Master of Public Health Degree, magna cum laude (highest honors). There were three thousand degrees presented at the commencement exercises, 1000 were A. B. degrees, the rest advanced degrees. The conferring of degrees was held in front of the Memorial Church in the tree shaded yard, and then the recipients of advanced degrees went to their respective schools for small commencement ceremonies. The College of Public Health conferred the highest honors that the school can give to Mr. Saylor.

Melinda Scheffer Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Scheffer announce the engagement of their daughter, Melinda, to Robert Douglas, son of Mrs. Robert P. Douglas.

Both of the young people went to Carmel High School, Monterey Peninsula Junior College and are now at San Jose State College. Robert belongs to Alpha Tau Omega and is majoring in Business Administration. Melinda is a member of Phi Mu, and majoring in General Education.

Julie Mayer Graduates

Julie Mayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Mayer of Carmel, received a degree of Bachelor of Arts at Carleton College, in Northfield, Minnesota.

Her father is the author of They Thought They Were Free, a book on Nazism in Germany.

Julie, who first attended Monterey Peninsula Junior College, majored in English. She was on the literary board of a student publication, MS, and in the college chorus.

Pat Finley Married

All Saints' Episcopal Church was the scene of one of the season's loveliest weddings on Saturday, June 8, when Patricia Kathleen Finley became the bride of Robert Ernest Ehrhart of New Orleans. Pat was given in marriage by her father, Dr. James B. Finley of Carmel. The five o'clock nuptials were read by the Rector of All Saints, the Rev. Angus Dun, Jr., before an altar banked with white stock and gladioli.

Preceding the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Finley down the aisle were five attendants: Mrs. Benjamin Dew (Alice Ferrante) was Pat's matron of honor. Three college classmates from Pomona College, attended by Pat, were her bridesmaids. They were Miss Patricia Palar of Seattle, Miss Ruth McKenzie of San Bernardino, and Miss Marilyn Martin of San Pedro. Miss Phyllis Burnette of Carmel, a student of Scripps College, was Patricia's fourth bridesmaid.

James Fenston, Pat's cousin, from Fresno served as best man. The ushers were Don Rowe and Benjamin Dew of Carmel; Dr. Earl Fenston of San Francisco, and David Edwards of Los Angeles.

For her late afternoon wedding, Pat chose a classic gown of white satin, with small train, lace yoke, and wrist-length sleeves. A seed pearl crown held her fingertip veil. Her wedding bouquet was a cascading shower of phalaenopsis and orchids with Stephanotis. Ballerina length gowns, deepening in hue from pale pink to rose, were worn by Pat's bridesmaids. Their bouquets were formed of shattered pink carnations mounted in nylon tulle, and they wore flowered, pale pink headbands.

A graduate of Sunset School, and Carmel High School, the bride later attended Pomona College. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest S. Ehrhart of New Orleans. He met Pat while he was stationed at the Army Language School, where he was a student in the Vietnamese Department. Previously, he was a civil engineering student at Tulane University. He is the brother of Mrs. Richard Eberhardt, and Jack, Gay and Sue Ehrhart, all of New Orleans.

The newlyweds are now on a wedding trip in the High Sierra. They will soon leave for New Orleans to visit the bridegroom's family, before departing for Washington, D.C., where the groom will be stationed for the next three months. Then he will learn his future assignment from the Army.

250 guests attended the wedding reception held at Monterey Peninsula Country Club. For her gown, Patricia chose the new Mrs. Robert Ehrhart chose a white linen dress, worn with all-white accessories, and a white kid coat. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Finley selected an ice blue taffeta cocktail dress, and a corsage of green cymbidium orchids.

The night before the Finley-Ehrhart nuptials Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ferrante entertained wedding party members at a supper at their home following the wedding rehearsal.

At Carmel High School Patricia Finley was an honor student. She was selected for an American Field Service Scholarship to spend a summer with a family in Germany. At the time of her marriage she was a junior at Pomona College.

Cohon's Son Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cohon returned to their Pebble Beach home Monday from Los Angeles, where they attended the June 9 wedding of their son, Stanley, and Miss Joyce Bucksten. The wedding was held at the Town House.

On June 13 the Cohon's daughter, Sondra, who has just completed her fourth year at the University of California at Berkeley, left for New York on the first part of a University Student Grand Tour. Following several days in New York at the Waldorf Astoria with a group of classmates, Sondra journeyed to Montreal, where she will board the USS Empress of Britain for Liverpool. The tour will include such cities as London, Brussels, Amsterdam, Heidelberg, Lucerne, Geneva, Venice, Florence, Rome, Naples, Cannes, Paris and back to London, returning to Montreal on the Empress of Scotland on August 23. She will return to Pebble Beach on August 26.

Dr. Elak Visits Carmel Friends

Dr. Robert Fink and Mrs. Fink, of the University of Illinois, and now of Los Angeles, first spent their vacation in Yosemite, and today arrived in Carmel. While they are here they will visit their friends the Henry Millers of Big Sur, the Douglas Smiths of Carmel and Michael Blanton.

Betsy Pye To Produce G. S. Show

Betsy Pye is planning a production of a quiz program on television Channel 8 for the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scouts which will be scheduled in September.

Betsy Pye has finished playing in Witness For the Prosecution, the Wharf Players' latest hit in which she played the part of Janet MacKenzie. Her husband portrayed the role of Mayhew, the solicitor.

Now Betsy is looking for a good script for the Girl Scouts. She has also agreed to help them produce a play this summer for radio station KMBY.

Her daughter Carolyn, 15, is a Mariner, a girl's branch of sea scouts. The older daughter is Lorraine, 18, who is a student at Monterey Peninsula College, majoring in psychology. Carolyn has been chosen, along with Ann Hawes of Carmel Valley, to represent the Monterey Peninsula Girl Scouts at the Regional Summer Camp in Los Angeles.

Edgar and Betsy always play in the same dramas together. They lived in the same town in Lancaster, where they met.

The Pyes are originally from England. Four years ago, when they emigrated to British Columbia and could find no drama groups or interest in little theatres, they came to Carmel. They spent part of last year in England where Betsy studied in drama schools.

Before coming to America, Betsy acted in Jupiter Laughs by A. J. Cronin. A while back she was in Carmel's Forest Theatre in John Synge's Playboy of the Western World, and Dangerous Corner by J. B. Priestly in which Edgar Pye starred.

Carmel Portraits . . .

The Lewis family finally moved to San Francisco and Afton probably spent a few years keeping her alert and intelligent mind busy with what went on around her in art circles and which led to a rather startling career for her—one which branched out in many directions.

She took preliminary drawing and training at the California School of Fine Arts. She studied to be a lapidary. At one time she received instruction from the famous teacher Margaret de Patta Bielawski. She designed jewelry and had an exhibit in the San Francisco Art Festival and received an Award of Merit. Her creative talent enabled her to become distinguished in ceramics, silk screen painting, leather craft and even sculpture. And as an ice-skater she has won various tests including the bronze medal for certain dances.

Afton Lewis considers flying "tops" in her many-sided career. While still a youngster, living in Carmel, she used to watch a couple of boys experimenting with a home-made glider, somewhere in the vicinity of Junipero and Ocean Avenue. She can't remember the full names of the boys but she thinks their given names were Wendell and Herbert and that they were cousins. When they cleared the ground for a few feet she knew right then that she had to become a flyer. For several years she has held a flyer's private license and frequently has herself a restful day by soaring around in the wild blue yonder. Her great ambition is to own her own plane and take off whenever the spirit moves.

Afton is a restless person, animated, full of ideas, always on the go. She is strong of body, lithe and graceful in her movements. She looks at life as an opportunity for accomplishment and rebels that there is "not enough time." When you meet her you can't imagine her in a business office but there too she has excelled. She should be president of one of our largest industries.

That anyone could master so many professions made my brain buzz. So I could only say: "Well, Afton, is that all? Are you sure that you're not harboring any more talents? Are you holding anything back on me?"

She gave a shy smile and said, "The really important event in my life is to occur soon. It calls for a knowledge of homemaking so I am now learning to cook, wash dishes and sew. You see I am to be married shortly—and to a flyer."

Gahagan Family Plans

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Gahagan will leave Carmel after four years residence. First they and their four children will move to Palo Alto where Mr. Gahagan will finish his graduate studies this summer at Stanford University.

On September 5 the family will sail to Europe on the Independence. They will live in a villa (smaller than a villa) 17 kilometres from Rome, overlooking the rolling countryside. Their purpose is to teach in the American Overseas School directed by Dr. Paul Webb, for at least a year. The children will be enrolled there as pupils, and Mrs. Gahagan will teach kindergarten while Mr. Gahagan teaches the upper grades.

The eldest son is Michael Gahagan who is 16. He won the American Field Service Scholarship and sailed to Spain from Montreal this week. He will join his parents and Tappy, 15; Lessia, 13 and brother Mark, 7, in Rome in September.

Years ago the Gahagans were married in Carmel, and then moved to Woodside. They came back to Carmel in 1952 and consider it their second home.

Mrs. Elston Off Again

Carmel television viewers may remember a true adventure film of brave explorers floating down the torrential rapids of the Colorado River on a rubber life raft, (about two months ago on channel five). One of them was Mrs. Talulah Elston who lives in Carmel but is always off on some adventure or other.

She is doing it again this week with the same group, the Georgie White expedition. Mrs. Elston was one of those who fell in the river around the deep gorge of Grand Canyon, and had to be rescued by the parties in the second raft. She made many preparations for the trip and is in Colorado now, ready for this new venture, navigating the Cataract Canyon area.

AN ORDINANCE AMENDING SECTION 6 OF ORDINANCE NO. 230 N. S. WITH RESPECT TO THE RUNNING AT LARGE OF ANIMALS.

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF CARMEL-BY-THE-SEA DOES ORDAIN AS FOLLOWS:

Section 1. That Section 6, Ordinance No. 230 N. S. of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea be amended to read as follows:

"Section 6. It shall be unlawful for the owner of any dog or other animal, whether licensed or unlicensed, to suffer, permit or allow said dog or other animal to run at large on any public street, alley, park, square, or place, or on any vacant or unenclosed lots or land within the city limits of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea. All dogs and other animals shall be deemed running at large within the meaning of this Ordinance unless led or restrained by a chain, strap, or cord attached to their collars and actually held by some person or made fast to some stationary object."

Section 2. That this Ordinance is hereby declared to be for the immediate preservation of the public peace, health and safety on the grounds that there presently exists an unusual danger of the spread of rabies, that an emergency in this nature exists, and that this emergency requires this Ordinance to become effective immediately upon its passage.

Section 3a. That this Ordinance shall take effect and be in force immediately upon its final passage and approval.

Section 3b. That this Ordinance shall expire and be of no further force and effect after one year from its effective date.

Section 4. That the City Clerk of said City is hereby instructed to cause this Ordinance to be published once in the CARMEL PINE CONE, the official newspaper of said City, within fifteen (15) days after its final passage and approval.

Hard Working Fire Fighters Save Taxpayers' Money

By Fire Chief Robert E. Smith

This report is a summary of the activities of the Carmel-by-the-Sea Volunteer Fire Department from July 1, 1956 to July 1, 1957.

Total Real Property protected (assessed valuation) $12,000,000.

Fire calls answered: Still alarms, 21; General alarms, 20. Total, 41 alarms answered.

Ambulance calls, over 54. Most of Volunteer Members own first aid certificates.

Real Estate and Personal Property involved in answering those fire alarms amounted to (replace cost) approximately $1,364,200.00. The loss resulting from fire was approximately $10,680.15, which is about a one percent loss. This does not mean that we are infallible but is simply an indication that the people of Carmel are practicing good fire prevention and that the members of the fire department are doing a good job and striving to do a better job.

A total of 560 men answered fire calls only.

The membership spent 675 man hours on drilling and training. This amounts to 82 working days or four work months. The Volunteers of this city are to be commended. They also spent time at various schools in Salinas, Carmel and Los Angeles, a total of 355 man hours spent in fire training.

Following are some of the projects that have been completed by the department: kitchen remodeled, interior of fire house painted, regular truck maintenance program in operation, Engine No. 2 (Mack) remodeled to be more efficient. These projects have resulted in a more efficient department and could not have been done without the knowledge and mechanical capabilities of the paid personnel on duty. This various work, has resulted in great savings for the City of Carmel. Needless to say, the various projects, efficient training and fire supervision could not have been accomplished without the Volunteer Fire Fighters. It behooves us all to be thankful for the men who ride our fire engines, for their civic pride and their love of community cannot be questioned.

Various cause of fires in the past year: unknown 4, grease in stove 2, re-ignite 1, combustible and hot water heaters 1, defective gas app. 2, cigarettes 5, electric 2, paint thinner 1, trash burner 4, lightning 1, chimney fire 4, washing machine 1, control burn 1, back fire in chain saw 1, chair over floor heater 1, blanket over lamp 1, belt slipping on motor 1, overheated coffee roaster 1, child with cigarette lighter 1, incendiary 2.

POTTERS RETURN AT LAST

Carmel has not seen the Zenas Potters since March 1956 when they left for the Bay of Naples and Sorrento to write and paint. They returned last week, buying a car in Detroit, and driving slowly back to California.

They spent the winters in Sorrento, but took two trips throughout the continent, driving a British car. They visited France, Germany and Switzerland. One of their trips was a visit to Austria with Mrs. Potter's two sisters, Mrs. Clark Williams of Paris and London, and Mrs. Ernest Colgrove of New York.

For the most part they stayed in Sorrento. Zenas is preparing his canvases of scenes in Naples and Venice now. Miriam Potter's new book published by Lipincott will be out soon, Just Mrs. Goose. Her second children's book will be out next year, called The Mouse Who Like to Read in Bed. She wrote a third while in Naples (not inspired by the vacation, but written in between traveling) which Lipincott will publish the following year.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon at Christian Science services Sunday.

Matthew's account of Christ Jesus' stilling of the storm at sea (8:23-27) is included in the selections to be read from the King James Version of the Bible.

Passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include the following (182:32-4); "The law of Christ, or Truth, makes all things possible to Spirit; but the so-called laws of matter would render Spirit of no avail, and demand obedience to materialistic codes, thus departing from the basis of one God, one law-maker."

The Golden Text is from John (1:1,3): "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God; and the Word was God . . . All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made."

Mayor Appoints Carl Patnude To Emergency Com.

Mayor Horace Lyon appointed Councilman Carl Patnude, last night, to represent Carmel on a peninsula committee, "to work on the emergency medical problem."

When a San Francisco youth drowned near Carmel Point on June 2, the police department called 20 doctors before one could be found. The same week end, when three Carmel young people were injured in an automobile accident, an hour and a half elapsed before medical attention could be obtained for them. County Supervisor Tom Hudson called a breakfast session of peninsula mayors and representatives of the medical association to work out some plan for emergency medical service. The county supervisors refused to finance an emergency station on the peninsula, which would require service of 14 doctors on duty in rotation to provide 24 hour service. At the breakfast meeting, Mayor Horace Lyon proposed a peninsula emergency district to finance the emergency station through tax levy.

In appointing Councilman Patnude to serve on the study committee, the mayor pointed out that Mr. Patnude is familiar with "the emergency situation" in Carmel since he is fire commissioner, deputy policeman, and drives the Red Cross ambulance to most of its emergency calls.

For some years the local medical association has been responsible for providing emergency care. Peninsula doctors are "on call" in rotation, but if the doctor whose turn it is to be "on call" is attending one of his own patients when an emergency arises, he cannot respond.

Earlier this week representatives of the two peninsula hospitals issued the following statement to the city councils and protective services of the peninsula cities, to the county board of supervisors, the highway patrol and the newspapers:

STATEMENT OF POLICY RE: EMERGENCY MEDICAL CARE

The Monterey Hospital, the Peninsula Community Hospital and their respective Medical Staffs have exerted their very best efforts to provide the public with emergency care on a voluntary basis. Since this arrangement has not proven entirely satisfactory, we therefore urge that the departments of government of all municipalities of the Monterey Peninsula and the County government formulate a program of the type of emergency medical service they desire for the present population, the anticipated rapid increase in population, and the ever-growing transient tourist population.

The two existing hospitals and Medical Staffs will gladly assist in advising, implementing, and co-operating to their fullest abilities as they have in the past.

Signed: Horace L. Dormody, M.D., president Monterey Hospital Ltd.; Jesse F. Williams, M.D., president, Peninsula Community Hospital Ltd.; Richard Still, M.D., president, Medical Staff Monterey Hospital; A. F. Kandlbinder, M.D., president, Medical Staff Peninsula Community Hospital.

Mrs. McCracken Returned

Mrs. David J. McCracken of Yankee Point went with her aunt, Elena Bergman, to visit her cousin, George Bergman, in New York City. Tia Elena is proud of her 80 years and loved every moment of her flight across the continent. They stayed almost three weeks, visiting the places of interest, circling Manhattan by boat, visiting Radio City, and the shops. The main purpose was to await the arrival of George's new child. It was a boy, Richard Bergman. They arrived home in the Carmel Highlands last week.

"If you love music. If there's a song in your heart, what else can you do but sing?" Hans Cohn, gifted young bass-baritone asks prior to his Carmel concert on Sunday.

To one less talented, or less tenacious about fulfilling his talent, the answer might be a shrug. But to Hans Cohn, well known and well loved throughout the Peninsula, the answer is, "Well, you work. Sometimes at very strange things in very strange parts of the world and for very strange reasons. But you work at whatever is most practicable in order to make the singing possible, and in order to marry and raise a family and live the full kind of life that gives fuller expression to music."

Graced with a voice described by Lotte Lehman last year as "beautiful. A beautiful voice", Cohn will leave in the fall with his family for New York where he has been accepted in one of the world renowned cantorial schools, and where he will continue the study made possible by his work as a chef with pots and pans and an astounding ability to juggle Bach Festivals with beef stroganoffs!

Owner of the Coq D'or, French Restaurant and catering service, for the past four years, and currently Maitre D' at the Pine Inn, Cohn has been doing just such juggling and and such interspersing of "voice and vittles" during the past five of his seven years on the Peninsula.

In addition to innumerable recitals, guest appearances at Peninsula churches and regular service as cantor at the Salinas Synagogue, he has sung each year with the Carmel Bach Festivals, as well as having done the catering for Festival banquets.

With an infectious grin and a warmly accented voice, Hans Cohn tells of singing the solo role of the High Priest in the Saint Mathew Passion during the Festival. "This is where I sandwich hors d'oeuvres in between oratorios," he says. "I had to sing because I love to sing. But I also had to work, so I'd make some canapes, then run to rehearsals, then run back and make more canapes, then back to rehearsal. And whether or not they knew it at the banquet, those were probably the only hors d'oeuvres in existence ever made to a metronome!"

A native of Berlin, Hans left Germany for Shanghai with his parents at the outset of the war in 1939. Scarcely 12 years old at the time, and with an ambition to become a pharmacist or a chemist, it wasn't long until necessity made him an apprentice chef.

"My mother died in Shanghai," he recalls, "We hadn't been able to take anything out of Germany and from sheer practicality, my only course was to choose a trade in which my father and I could live, or rather, stay alive. Pharmacy and chemistry were out. You couldn't eat chemicals and test tubes."

"There was an opening with a baker, but you couldn't live on bread and pie, so I became a chef, in order to learn a trade where I could be fed at the same time I made enough money to help my father and to study the singing I learned to love as a choir boy in Europe."

And learn the trade he did. And learn to sing, he did, over a period of fifteen years that took him from teachers and kitchens in China, Europe, Australia and America, with a year and a half in a Japanese internment camp in China tossed in for not-very-good measure.

Following his arrival in Los Angeles in 1948, and a tour of duty in the army at Fort Ord, during which he met his wife, Eva, a teacher in the Salinas High School, Hans Cohn has since sung in such a fashion that Peninsula audiences as well as famed singers who have heard him have spared no superlative adjectives in describing his astounding voice.

He has also worked at his trade, in such a fashion that rased Leonard Warren to rapturous praise for his Stroganoff. That such a man, with such a voice, could produce such food!

This rare instance of artistry carrying over in completely divergent fields is described by Hans Cohn as nothing more than jumping in with both feet.

But those who know him say that it is because he jumps in with his heart also, whether it is singing the Saint Mathew Passion in Carmel, California, or broiling a steak for Winston Churchill in Sydney, Australia.

And with a sound understanding of what makes music and musicians, Hans Cohn can look back at being hungry and homeless and say, "Perhaps it's difficulty that makes art. If it were too easy you might not do it. You might just buy a ticket and listen to someone else."

Expressively grateful for what he considers "good fortune" in having been able to work and study, the young baritone, who will be presented in concert at 4:00 p.m. Sunday, by his coach, and teacher, Nancy Ness Bowman, famed European singer, at the Parish Hall of All Saints' Church, has chosen a career as a cantor as the next step forward for his music, and into which he plans to jump "with both feet and his heart."

With the reawakening of faith throughout the world, and greatly renewed interest in liturgical music, cantorial work has taken on added fervor; and where in the past, Europe has furnished all the experienced cantors for America, it is now the American schools that are furnishing European synagogues.

From an artistic standpoint, the requirements are of such calibre that the cantorial graduate is well able to take concert engagements as they arise. And from a purely practical standpoint, which the gifted Hans Cohn has long since learned to consider, a career as a cantor offers the opportunity to study, to earn while serving as a cantor in order to take care of a wife and two small daughters. But most of all, it offers an opportunity to sing.

Morses Return From Europe

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel F. B. Morse have returned from their trip to Europe where they spent much of their time cruising on their yacht, Vileehi. They spent a few days in San Francisco where they were entertained by Mrs. Henry Potter Russell before returning to Pebble Beach. On Monday the Morses entertained Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. White of Honolulu who are staying at Del Monte Lodge this week.
